

ROSWELL THAT ENDS WELL

Rick: Klaatu, barata, nikto

Rick Smith, graphic artist and self-described UFO Teacher is abandoning Amish Country and the sanctity of The New York Post for an adventurous journey, along with the lovely Diane, to the motherland of New Mexico, where his ancestors landed July 8, 1947.

With his unique skills (which were honed in A-V clubs throughout Long Island), Rick should have no problem landing a job in Albuquerque, as long as the prospective employer agrees to his two basic demands: a) That he be allowed to show up when he damn well pleases; and b) That he be allowed to visit "Napa Valley" as often as necessary. Good night, Rick.
